ANOTHER SLAYER ADMITTED

Alfonso Edmonston Says He Killed Henson Ballard in Self-Defense.

Alfonso Edmonston, colored, who killed Henson Ballard, also colored, in Howard Theater the night of January 13, early last night walked to the eighth precinct police station to surrender, believing he would be able to convince a jury that he had done the shooting in self-defense. But he turned away.

"I started through the gate, but lost my nerve," he said. "I was like a balky horse at a barrier on the race-track."

Two hours later Capt. Judge of the tenth precinct arrested him at 1770 street. Learning Edmonston was in the 7 street house, the captain and Policeman J. C. Bogart entered with drawn revolvers and commanded four men seated in a room to raise their hands.

Not knowing which member of the quartet was the alleged murderer, the police marched the men to the street, requiring them to keep their hands raised, and then marched them to the police station. Edmonston, who was unarmed, admitted his identity. The others were not held.

The alleged murderer said he was satisfied that when all the facts in the case were known he would be exonerated. He said the financial differences between Ballard and himself was not the only thing that figured in the shooting.

Edmonston was a waiter at a Pennsylvania avenue hotel for many years, and later drove a public vehicle. Having been accused of the crime by a coroner's jury at an inquest held at the morgue earlier in the week, it will not be necessary for the prisoner to be given a hearing in Police Court. He told the police he went to Rockville shortly after the shooting.

Today Edmonston and Herbert Weston, the latter the confessed slayer of Policeman McKimble, were at the line-up at police headquarters. Inspector Grant pointed them out to the members of the detective force and said they had admitted the shooting charged against them. While at headquarters, Weston, deeply depressed, volunteered no statement, but Edmonston, who knew some of the details, willingly discussed the tragedy and recalled the days when he was employed as hotel waiter.

Weston was taken to the morgue this afternoon to hear the testimony at an inquest coroner Nevitt conducted for the purpose of having a jury determine when, where and under what circumstances Policeman McKimble was killed.

CAPITAL IS CHOSEN FOR CONVENTIONS

No Less Than Eighteen National and International Events Scheduled.

Washington is to be the meeting place for at least eighteen national and international conventions and conferences this year, with other large organizations considering advisability of holding their annual gatherings here, according to announcement by A. E. Seymour, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Several of the national and international organizations that have chosen Washington as the place for their conventions this year are expected to have attendance of close to 10,000 delegates and visitors each. The Southern Baptist Association, which is to hold its sessions in Liberty Hall the week of May 12-18, will have an attendance of close to that figure.

Thirty-Three Countries Represented.

One of the most important of the international conferences to be held here this summer is that of the World's Brotherhood Federation, which is to be in session June 4-8, inclusive. Representatives will be in attendance from thirty-three foreign countries, and scores of internationally famous men are to be here for the sessions, among them Gen. Jan Smuts and Lloyd George.

The annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, probably to be held during August, also will attract a large attendance.

Other conventions and meetings to be held here during the year include those of the Sons of the Revolution, April 19; National Academy of Sciences, April 26 to 28; Association of Harvard Clubs, some time in the spring; American Association of Museums, September 14; American Institute of L. O. O. F., May 4; Supreme Council, Brotherhood of America, May 13; Independent Order of Rechabites, September 14; American Institute of L. O. O. ## SNOW AND SLEET MAKE CENSUS TAKING TEDIOUS

Officials Fear Washington Data Cannot Be Completed by Tomorrow Night.

Hope that the fourteenth decennial census in the District of Columbia may be completed by tomorrow night was practically abandoned today. With a heavy coating of snow and sleet covering the ground, rendering sidewalks slippery and conditions generally unsatisfactory, census officials did not believe enumerators could make the speed necessary to complete the count by the end of the week.

The schedule, as announced yesterday, calls for the turning in of forty completed portfolios a day, including tomorrow, but this schedule will probably lag on account of weather conditions. The few census districts not yet completed were covered by enumerators yesterday, but the number of portfolios turned in did not come up to expectations.

WORLD'S BROTHERHOOD FEDERATION MEETS HERE

Delegates From Thirty-Three Countries Assemble in June—All Faiths to Be Represented.

The World's Brotherhood Federation, with delegates from thirty-three countries, will meet in Washington June 4 next, according to an announcement just made here by the American convention committee.

The convention is expected to be attended by leading Christian clergymen and laymen from all corners of the earth where there are organizations following the teachings of Christ.

The organization was formed at a meeting of delegates from twenty-two countries, held last September in London. Its object is to unite the men of the world of all faiths in a movement to bring the teachings of Jesus into the practical affairs of every-day life as an aid to solving world problems.

The American convention committee, which met in Washington yesterday to consider plans for the Washington convention, is composed of Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson, pastor of the Bethany Baptist Church of this city; J. O. McCarthy of Toronto, Canada; Rev. John Colburn of Toronto; Rev. R. B. Whyte of Ottawa, Canada; Thomas Howell of Toronto, and Dr. Rolvis Hurlan of New York city.

Invitations to attend the convention here have been extended to Premier Lloyd George of England and Gen. Smuts of South Africa, and they have tentatively accepted. Rev. John Clifford of London, president of the federation, and William Ward, also of London, general secretary and commissioner, are expected to be here.

The committee has presented an invitation to President Wilson at the White House, as the first American to be invited to the sessions.

FUND ASKED TO PAY 14,000 NAVY YARD MEN

Discharge of 14,000 employees of navy yards is threatened unless Congress promptly appropriates about $10,000,000 to continue the repair work at the various navy yards, according to a letter from Secretary Daniels to Speaker Gillett transmitting a message from Rear Admiral Robert E. Koonz, chief of naval operations.

Admiral Koonz says that due to shortage of funds the number of naval vessels kept in condition is "dangerously small," and urges that the force of skilled repair men be not depleted.

"The present unsettled conditions throughout the world demands that the ships of the Navy be kept in efficient condition for action," said Admiral Koonz in his letter.

HOUSE PASSES 'PORKLESS' RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL

The smallest rivers and harbors bill for many years, totaling $12,400,000, and called "the porkless bill," was passed by the House, 167 to 25, after all attempts to amend it had failed.

The appropriation for maintenance and continuation of work on projects already under way.

Previous to the final vote effort was made to recommit the measure with instruction to specify numerous river and harbor improvements scattered throughout the country, but this move was defeated, 207 to 116. Likewise, the House refused to appropriate $11,000,000 for work on the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri rivers, as well as for numerous smaller projects.

CORCORAN ART EXHIBIT IS OPEN THIS EVENING

Seventh Biennial Display at Local Gallery, Which Opened December 21, Will Close Sunday.

The last chance to view in the evening the seventh biennial exhibition of the Corcoran Gallery of Art is scheduled for tonight from 8 until 10 o'clock, when admission to this particularly excellent display will be free.

This is the second of the two open nights arranged by gallery officials for the benefit of that portion of the public of Washington which found no chance to see the 318 oil paintings composing the exhibit either on a weekday or on Sunday afternoon.

C. Powell Muningerode, director of the institution, has expressed the hope that as many persons as the gallery can possibly accommodate may avail themselves of this special chance to inspect the work of the 273 representative American artists who contributed to the exhibition.

The seventh biennial exhibition, which opened December 21, will end next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The gallery will thereafter be entirely closed to the public for a number of days sufficient for the reinstallation and arrangement of the gallery's regular permanent collection. Gallery officials cannot estimate the exact time this substitution will occupy, but it will probably be a week or ten days, and as soon as the date of reopening is definitely known it will be announced.
